straightout or bolting democrats of Kansas met here today in state convention. The convention has been anticipated with joy by the republicans and corresponding misgivings by the populists and fusion democrats, for upon its action it is generally conceded the fate of the fusion ticket depends. September 15th last, the bolters attempted to hold a convention, but the attendance was very small and today's convention was then called. The bolters have been read out of the party in their own counties. The call for today's convention protests against the surrender of the democratic organization to the people's party. The regular democratic state committee met here yesterday and threw a bombshell into the bolter's camp by producing correspondence showing that the republicans were aiding and abetting the straightouts, and that the republican committee had sent to various democrats throughout the state free passes from their homes to Topeka and return, so that they might conveniently attend the convention. The democratic committee claims this one fact will rob the convention's action of influence, but the bolters are going ahead and claim that their political course is the proper one.

From this dispatch it will be seen that the next probable step will be the announcement of a new government for Venezuela, with General Crespo at the head of affairs. Admiral Walker has two men of war in Venezuelan waters, sent there to protect American interest, in the events that trouble should mark a change governing forces of Venezuela and will look after the rights of Americans.

to attempt anything of the sort. He advised them to keep up their organization, however, in the interest of the national ticket as Cleveland and Stevenson clubs, and to work energetically for the national candidates. Should they rashly nominate or endorse a second democratic local ticket they would not only be badly beaten, but they would make themselves ridiculous by the paucity of their vote. By working solely for the national ticket and keeping up their organization, they might hope to enter the lists next year and knock Tammany out. E. B. Whitney followed Grace on the same line. The speeches of Grace and Whitney were heard in sullen silence and it was quite evident that a big majority of those present did not relish the advice given. FAULKNER AT WORK. TILLMAN TALKS

> New York, October 7.-In an interview with a New York Times reporter, Governor Tillman, of South Carolina, says: "The present status in South Carolina is about as follows: There is some third party senti-ment in the state, as there is in every its peculiar ideas and the third party is strong in some counties. There is some feeling—a sort of hopeless feeling—of resentment at the other end of the line among the Haskell faction—among the old ring—but from present appearances there will be scarcely any votes cast for Weaver and the third party national ticket. There is absolutely no third party organization in the state. Some of the Haskellites will probably signify their displeasure by remaining away from the polls in November. The large bulk of both democratic factions, however, will vote the straight democratic ticket. The Tillmanites will eat Cleveland crow, the Sheppardites will eat Tillman crow, and the goose will hang high." its peculiar ideas and the third party is

Over the Removal of the Southern Female University from Florence to Birmingham.

Florence, Ala., October 7.—(Special.)—Dr. Bass, president of the Southern Female university, confirms the report that he will move the university to Birmingham and says he will probably take the young ladies, nearly one hundred in number, next Friday.

"The pupils," he says, "are very enthusiastic over the change and can hardly wait for the time to come." He has secured the Lake View hotel furnished throughout five years free, and has been given other inducements.

The news of the removal caused consternation here, more particularly among those having claims against Dr. Bass. The building occupied by the university here is an elegant and asew one, costing $80,000. He was given the use of the building two years free, with the agreement that he would pay a certain rent after that time. The old land company, which owns the building, has Dr. Bass's written agreement to rent the building for five years. He owes many debts in the city and his leaving will be the cause of much littigation.

REVISING THE HYMNAL

Has Gone Out L.to the Campaign in the West and North.

Amadeu", Ga., October "... (Special.)—Speaker Orisp came home to help old Sumter roll up the biggest majority for democracy ever known since the county was organized.

Heris, on course, greatly gratified with the result, and leaves Georgia today for the northwest with the full assurance that the "Empire State of te South" would do her full duty again on the 8th of November.

Judge Orisp goes first to Alabama, where he has two appointments to speak, and thence to the "Bluegra.s" State," where several speeches will be made to the democracy of Kentucky before he joes north.

Following are his appointments in the several states in which he has been invited to speak. Will be an Order of the Day in the Episcopal Baltimore, October 7.—The third session of vention met this morning, after service in Emanuel church, celebrated by Bishop Pad-dock, of Washington, assisted by Bishop Jones, of Newfoundland. When the work of the session began at 10 o'clock every seat in the building was occupied. A message from the house of bishops were being read when Rev. John Williams of Omaha, Nebraska, rose and objected to the reading, as it preju-diced the house against articles refused to be accepted by the bishops. The president, how-ever, overruled the objection and desired the secretary to proceed with the reading of the message. There were several memorials sent by various dioceses and through its dep-uties asking that changes in those dioceses be made.

The bishops report to the house of deputies contained a number of resolutions they had adopted and rejected. Numbers from 21 to 52 were adopted; 30, 31, 34 and 46 rejected.

printed and distributed among the deputies for consideration. The motion was unanimously carried.

At 11 o'clock a, m. the house departed from the order of the day and the bishops entered and took position in the chancel, in order to sit in joint session on the missionary question. Bishop Clarke, of Rhode Island, presided, assisted by President Rev. Mr. Morgan, and the secretaries of both houses. Rev. William S. Langford, D. D., of New York, general secretary of the board of general managers, read a long missionary report, stating its financial situation, and granted different missionaries. Money received in 1892, $197.274; money and goods on hand, $352.047; twenty-one year's subscriptions, $3,325.505, all received for missionary work.

Sectral missionary addresses were then read, the first was from Bishop Nichols, describing the mission on the Pacific coast. He said that when he first went there he expected to find nothing but persons steeped in vice and sin, but was glad to find that the young men of the weet had not forgotten their God. By unanimous consent of the house the bishop of Kentucky offered a resolution to give several missionaries supreme power in their dioceses. The motion was carried.

Missionary addresses were resumed by Bishop Garrett, who spoke with much power and effect, requesting young men to leave their homes and come with him to preach the word of God in one of the numerous towns of Texas.

Bishop Talbot, of Idaho and Wyoming, continued, and at the conclusion of his address the house adjourned.

ently-The Efforts to Save

Spartanburg, S. C., October 7 .- (Special.)-John Williams, the man who took the life of Major John A. Henneman, of this city, and Milbry Brown, at whose hands little Geraldine Carpenter died, today left this world for the next. The law of the state was executed and the two descendants of Ham leaped into space and their lives left them in the twinkling of an eye.

Sheriff John A. Nicholls received no instructions to hinder his obedience to the orders of the court and today at 11 o'clock he pulled the rope which separated the mortal from the immortal and sent to another world two criminals, than whom there were none more diabolical. The 7th day of September was the day appointed by the courts to execute the two and for the executions the officers had made all preparations needful. The negro preachers had prayed for and with the condemned and had managed to secure from them statements expressing readiness to depart this life, and the man and girl were brought within a few minutes of the set time, when instructions were received from the governor to stay the fatal work for a month and the facts which were connected with their cases were given a thorough consideration by the governor.

Efforts to Save William Strong and many were the efforts that were made for and against the execution. The extreme opposers to the relatives and immediate friends of Mr. George Henneman, the son of the slain, exercised themselves in vigorous efforts to bring into the case political color and to influence Governor Tillman to act in the negroes' behalf. Petitions were rushed to the governor's office and political crowds went to the governor in person.

commutation of the sentence, the friends of Major Henneman were doing their best work to prevent the governor's interference. They, too, sent lists of good names and letters from the jurors who convicted the man in three minutes, and then the waiting for the governor's declsion began. Various were the rumors that floated and hot were many words that were said about the interference of foes and the efforts of friends, and until the governor sent instructions to execute the orders of the court, one side was about as confident of favor as was the other. Not only were there divisions among certain whites which were brought about by political differences, but there were threats made by the race to which Williams belonged. The negroes were wrought to a high pitch and made threats which were not comfortable. They for a time were contemplating the seizure of Williams from the sheriff by a mob, but they were given the understanding that such action would not be advisable and this they abandoned. Then they threatened to burn the city, but this they gave up. They were anxious to give vent to their wrath, but they could secure no gen-eral to lead them. Thus did the friends of Williams act and danger was feared should the governor's decision fail to satsfy them.

There Was Another Fear. But their was another fear on the other ide. Mayor Henneman was a man of extended influence and his family has armies of friends. These friends never intended that John Williams should not die for the death of Mayor Henneman. They were conservative and waited patiently for the decision of the law. They were anxious that the matter be done decently and in order, but they were fully persuaded in their minds to have him die, and if the law would not order his death they were firm in their purpose to take him from the jail and officers and send him to the world which is beyond. There was an organization which would have done the act cleanly and promptly had not the governor acted as he did. But Governor Tillman could not be influenced by the etremists. He used his own mind to reason out the case and the result was to let the law's decision stand. Thus was avoided a raging mob and a scene of blood, for the officers would have fought nobly for the life of Williams.

Trying to Save the Girl. The case of the girl Brown was being considered along with that of Williams. The jury that convicted this girl did its work in a short time and the evidence that did the work was overwhelmingly convicting, but the convicted was a mere child, fourteen years of age, and was generally thought to be an imbecile. She was considered as too weak of mind and too young in years to be responsible for her actions, but the governor thought differently and refused to interfere with the careful work of the jury. He sent word to the sheriff to execute her today and

At the other time set for the exec there were hosts of men, women and children present to witness it, but they were disappointed today. The governor's decision was not generally known and the crowd failed to come. The country people knew little of the matter and stayed see what could be seen but the execution was private, only twenty people seeing the drop. The negrees looked very angry, but knew the uter folly of attempting anything and so they acted to at all. Few of the friends of both sides were in the inclosure when the sheriff brought the two upon the stand. William was dressed in a plain black suit and, Milbry Brown was attired in a snow white lawn around the bottom of which was bound a band of black. With a steady step they walked up the narrow pine steps and upon the rostrum of death. Very few were the words that they uttered. They were given the opportunity to talk before they went upon the stand, and there was nothing for them to say other than to tell them goodby. When the roses were adjusted, the warrents of death were read and together with them, the respite which the gavernor granted William in September. During the reading of the death warrants, William was possessed of seemingly great fear and looked around with an anxious eye, when the respite was read he brightened up wonderfully and seemed very hopeful until he was made to understand that the respite was read he brightened up wonderfully and seemed very hopeful until he was made to understand that the respite was not a new one, but one that pertained to the recent date. He then, with the girl, made up his raind to die, and in a voice trembling raid, "boys goodby."

Then the trap doors flew open and slammed. The negroes dropped six feet and whirled swiftly around, and then they were dead and into another world.

There was no struggling but the necks were token and in nine minutes the small girl was dead and in thirteen Williams was a corse.

The bodies were left in suspension thirty minutes when they were cut down and given to friends.

The bodies were left in suspension thirty minutes when they were cut down and given to friends.

The bodies were left in suspension thirty minutes when they were cut down and given to friends.

The Crimes Toy Committed.

So the number of American criminals had subtracted from it two. The crimes for which Williams and the girl die are black. On the 27th of September 1891 at 6 o'clock Mayor Henneman was shot by Williams and almost instantly killed. The mayor heard a noise in the neighborhood and went to the house of Williams. Its inquired of the woman the cause of the trouble. She responded by telling of the brutal treatment that she was receiving from the man. The mayor sent for a policeman. This enraged Williams who cursed the mayor and told him that no police could take him. Williams was going into his house when the mayor ordered him to halt and told him that he believed he was going into the house to get a pistol to shoot him. The mayor drew his pistol and told him to halt and wait until a policeman came. They then were in the door of the house and had entered into a scuffle. The two fel to the ground, the mayor under the new of and tightly grasped by the negros arm. The negro got away from the mayor several steps and then returned and with the mayors own pistol fired. The ball entered the shoulder blade and went into the right lung. The mayor was on the ground when shot and had no means of defence other than a small lath. Williams killed the mayor in cold blood according to the jury.

The Brown case was one of the most horrible in the history of crimes. On the 27th of June 1892 the girl went into the room of the infant wilere it was asleep and poured into its mouth two drops of carbolic acid. She confessed the crime and said that her reason for doing the deed was that she was mad with Mrs. Carpenter the childs mother. She knew of the fatal effects of the acid and had been cautioned of its poisonous qualities. She said she thought Mrs. Carpenter had too may children. Melbery Brown was the new youngest criminal ever executed in the United States. Her age was 14.

Fifteen minutes after the execution the following telegram was received from J. C. Hemphill, editor of the News and Courier. "Delay the execution of Milbry Brown to the last moment, have telegraphed for re-

During the morning Anna gave evidence of insanity by the manner in which she went on raving, talking at random and tearing her clothing. Wilson was in a state of excitement from the time he mounted the scaffold until the drop fell. He made a long rambling talk with very little point to it. He called on God to have mercy upon his soul, but seemed to have no hope of salvation. He said if there was a chance to live over the last six months he would not act in the same way for a million dollars. The jail was guarded by the local military company, a cordon of pickets being on duty to keep back the curious crowd.

Members of the Republican Committee Mak ing Southern Office Holders Shell Out.

Jackson, Miss., October 7.—(Special.)— Early this morning the citizens of this city were astonished by seeing a score or more of the leading federal office holders in town and they continued to arrive and quietly disappear. No notice had been given of a republican meeting and the wonder was as to what was in the wind.

to what was in the wind.

It was soon discovered that ex-Treasurer J. N. Ruston and J. G. Long of Florida were at a leading hotel and that the visit of the office holders was in response to requests privately sent out to meet the distinguished members of the national republican committee who had arrived last night from New Orleans in company with R. C. Powers, international revenue collector for Louisiana and Mississippi.

The rooms of Mesars. Ruston and Long were thronged all day with postmasters and all grades of federal office holders. "Mum" is the word with both visitors and officials. Mr. Ruston simply saying to reporters that he was on a general tour looking to the good of his party and that he had been trying to settle the factional fights of his party in Louisians.

It has developed, however, and is a fact that his visit was for the purpose of raising money from the office holders. They were given plainly to understand that the grand old party was hard pressed and that money was needed badly and at once and that the administration expected every office holder in Mississippi to do his duly promptly by handing in his contribution, or rather assessment. GERMAN DOCTORS ON THE CHOLERA

They Say the Disease Will Sweep Things Next Year,

AND WILL MAKE RAPID STRIDES.

During the Winter-Will Appear in England Again This Year. London, October 7.-The Times, whose carefully prepared letters on the cholera epidemic are attracting great attention in Europe and praise from the highest English and continental physicians, publishes an article today on the prospects of cholera for his and next year. It says: "We are already in October and still the epidemia marches steadily westward lespite the elaborate precaution and supposed sanitary perfection. Probably general public does not gather a clear idea of what is happening from a glance at the telegrams announcing the occurrence of a few cases in Grodno and Odessa. These do not sound more important than the dis-patches amounting the same condition of affairs in Service and Baku, all somewhere in Russia where the cholera is an old story. Similarly the death of a few lighter men at Spandau, in Germany, seems a compara-tive trifle while tidings of the cholera in a small way from a dozen places in Holland and Belgium were only to be expected. Even the invasion of Buda Pesth, capital of Hungary, will not attract much attention, while its effects are confined to their present moderate dimension Will Break Out Afresh. "All the foregoing will make little impression beside the news from Hamburg, Paris, St. Petersburg and central and southern Russia that the disease is subsidsouthern Russia that the disease is subsiding daily, yet they are of ominous import. They mean that the cholera is doing just what it has always done formerly—creeping quietly caward and sowing autumnal seeds in new ground over a wide area, which will burst forth luxuriant with the advent of summer. It is a most mischievous delusion that after September nothing more is to be feared for individual towns and districts which have borne the brunt of a severe epidemic. The winter generally means delivery, but for neighboring countries it means only the beginning of trouble. In recent cholera news from abroad it means that seed is being sowed over a vast area in central Europe ready for a death harvest in 1893.

What the Reports Mean. What the Reports Mean.

"The news from Grodno means that wes ern Russia, right up to the Russian border and beyond, is infected. The news from odessa means that seed is sown from Black sea, Littoral and Danubian provinces. The news from Buda Pesth means that the isolation of Colories that the isolation of Galacia was another failure, and that Austria and Hungary are nvolved, while the news from Spandau the river Oder are infected. Scattered the river Oder are infected. Scattered cases of disease in the Netherlands tell the same tale. If precedent is of any value all those districts, and also Poland and France, will break out into a blaze in 1893. Cholera will knock at many doors, and woe betide if there is a crack anywhere."

Continuing The Times says: "Berlin has very dubious water and can hardly hope to escape serious trouble. The cholera is almost certain to be brought to England escape serious trouble. The cholera is almost certain to be brought to England again this autumn and is quite certain to be brought here in 1893, probably both from the east and west, (meaning the Baltic and Mediterranean.) We may be able to exclude the disease as we have done since 1866. That is our best chance, for once it obtains a footing we will not find ourselves in a much better position than our neighbors. London an particular has escaped more through good luck that good management."

His death brought to light an interesting story, all the more curious in connection with the circumstances of his demise. Ten years ago he was a moneyless employe in the West Chicage Street Railway shops. When he died his fortune was considerably over $1,000,000. He had accumulated a small captal in the beer bottling business at Waterloo, Iowa, and then in the height of prohibition agitation removed to Sioux City, purchasing for a nominal sum 360 acres of land on the Nebraska side of the Missouri river, to which he built a pontoon bridge. A town of 3,000 population sprang up as if by magic, and the bridge tolis of 25 cents a head, charged to Iowans for crossing over to Nebraska, where lipuor could be had, proved a veritable bonanza. Dr. Lucas declares Moans died from alcoholism, not chloral, and that the unfortunate man had eaten a dozen and a half of oysters and drank fourteen ounces of gin. ers and drank fourteen ounces of gin.

There was a notable assemblage at Cedarfork today, the occasion being the return to the survivors of the North Carolina Grays, of a flag presented that organization in May 1861, which was taken from it by the Twenty-eighth Ohio regiment and which has since been in the possession of Colonel Higgins, commander of that regiment.

which has since been in the possession of Colonel Higgins, commander of that regiment.

The former chaplain, Rev. W. G. Clements, offered prayer. There were present many veterans, both confederate and federal. At the represt of Colonel Higgins, Mrs. Fannie Lyon Lowe, who as Mrs. Lyon had originally presented the colors, returned them to the survivors. Lieutenant Gunter received them and Major R. W. York, commander of the Grays, delivered an historical address. The roll was then called for the last time!

Dinner was served to the great concourse of people by the hospitable residents of the neighborhood. The exercises were then resumed and the flag was tendered to the state by Major York in behalf of the veterans. It was accepted by Governor Holt through Colonel Harrell, quartermaster general. This ceremony was followed by addresses by many of the veterans of both armies, prominent among whom were Samuel McDowell Tate, Julius S. Carr and W. C. Stronach, ex-confederate, and A. W. Shaffer and W. H. Martin, federals.

General Deputy Collector Joe Spurrier left here several days ago, saying to internal revenue men here that he had located twenty barrels of illicit brandy at a point about ten miles from Lincoln postoffice and the same distance from Flintville, in Lincoln county, and that he was going down to seize it. Mr. Spurrier showed a letter he had received from some one in Lincoln county telling him exactly where the brandy was and the roads to reach it, naming every bypath, the roads to be crossed and every possible detail. It is not remembered what name was signed to the letter, but the fact is sufficient ground for the belief that the revenue officers were led into ambush Mr. Spurrier got up his party and was proceeding to the point described this morning. They had just reached the top of a high plateau, when suddenly a volley was fierel into their ranks from directly behind. Captain S. D. Mather, Deputy collector, fell from his horse with twelve buckshot balls through his head. General Deputy Colector Spurrier was shot through the back and General Deputy Collector S. C. Cardwell was shot through the left side by ten backshot. The other three members of the party at once returned the fire and for a few minutes a desperate battle was fought. The four moonshiners were hidden behind a log. Their leader, named Patrick, was killed by E. S. Spurrier is thought to be fatally injured. Mr. S. D. Mather, the dead officer, has served in the internal revenue department for ten years. He was a resident of Bellvidere, Franklin county, where his wife and grown daughter reside. His positio was that of deputy collector. He did excellent service as a captain in the confederate army. He was forty-eight years old. Mr. C. S. Cardwell is a Kentuckian and was a revenue officer in that state for a number of years. He was transferred to this district last January to assist in clearing out the moonshine gangs that seemed to be gathering strength. He was selected for the work because of his keen judgment and unflinching bray-ery, as proven many a time in his own state. His wife and children reside in Nashville. He was thirty-seven years cld and a brother-in-law of Fighting Phil Thompson, of Kentucky. His body reached here tonight and tomorrow will be carried to Nicholasville, Ky.

In coming north is to arrange for refunding $5.442.019 Brown consol sixes of 1874, and $118,800 Green consols, both due July 1, 1833. I think the bonds can be funded at 4 1-2 per cent. for thirty years, provided the state would agree to apply the revenue to the phosphate fields as a sinking fund for their redemption. Of course the syndicate advancing the money would exact the usual commission. The syndicate would probably demand that the state make some disposition of the six million non-fundable sixes. The sinking fund commission should be composed of the governor, treasurer and proper state Michals, logether with the presidents of the leading banks of Charleston or Columbia, and the president of the National Park bank of this city."

Columbia, S. C., October (1—(Special.)—Wade Haynes, a seventeen-year-old colored boy, was today sentenced to hang on the 16th of December. His crime was the murder of Miss Florence Hornsby, a rural belle, who lived in the Killian section of this county. Haynes first tried to assault Miss Hornsby and failing in his purpose he cat her throat to prevent her informing on him. The country people were terribly incensed and were preparing to lynch Haynes when the scene and promised them that justifies should be done. The first trial was a mistrial. The country people came in town and were preparing to storm the jail when the sheriff got wind of it and removed Hayne's to the penitentiary, where he has been ever since. Haynes was convicted on the second trial and an appeal was made. The supreme court decided against Haynes and today Haynes was re-sentenced.

Today H. B. Hollins gave a check to Speyer and Company for $3,889,206.84. Checks of that size are not often seen even n New York financial circles. In return for the check the Speyer syndicate turned over to Hollins and Company Central se-curities of the par value of $12,000,000. These securities embraced Georgia Central consolidated firsts and Mobile and Girard, Port Royal and Augusta bonds. This trans-action takes up the Speyer loan made a year ago by John and Pat Calhoun. An order authorizing the transfer had been obtained from Judge Speer by H. C. Cunningham and B. A. Denmark, connsel for the Central and the receiver. Mr. Comer, the receiver, is here. He had been favorable to the pro-posed reorganization by Speyer and Company, but the company is now out of that syndicate and bonds. The Hollins committee will not give the slightest intimation of its plans. It is presumed that Judge Speer an early date.

An intimate friend of Mr. Comer's was asked today if he would serve until the end of the year as president. The reply was that "he is not a man to remain in a position of that kind unless he is thorough accord with the interests in control."

The inference was that Mr. Comer may resign before the end of the year. That is nerely a rumor on the street and is given for what it is worth. Colonel Charles H. Phinizy, of Augusta, is said to be the coming president. He does not want the position on account of the time and the work which he would have to devote to it. The board also instructed the executive committee to make a thorough investigation into the physical and financial condition of all the properties in the Terminal system at the close of the fiscal year, June 30,1892, and to report the same to the board to enable the committee on reorganization to avail themselves of such information. The board officially stated that all published reports purporting to give detailed plans of reorganization are without foundation. While progress has been accomplished in that direction no specific plan of reorganization has been determined on.

WON BY THE CENTRAL.

Two Excursion Trains Race from Jackson

The Central and the East Tennessee had their annual race from Jacksonville to Aplanta Thursday night.

The Savannah, Florida and Western pulled the coaches of both competing lines by the same engine up to Waycross. There the train same engine up to Waycross. There the train was divided. The Savannah, Florida and Western carried the Central's train on to Albany and the East Tennessee's on up the road to Jesup. At Albany the Central took up its train and brought it over the Southwestern to Macon and on here over the main stem. The East Tennessee hooked an engine of its own to its cars at Jesup and brought them here.

The East Tennessee hooked an engine of its own to its cars at Jesup and brought them here.

The Central's train got in the union depot an hour ahead of its competitor. From Macon hare the train was pulled by the powerful "Kancy Hauks," which ran a mile a minute for fourteen minutes. A stretch of fifty-eight miles on the Southwestern was covered in seventy-five minutes. The distance from Jarksonville to Atlanta is 397 miles around by Albany. This run was made in twelve hours, or an average of thirty-three miles an hour. "Nancy Hanks did the star running of the trip and proved herself to be a fast fiver like her nanesske. The Central brought up 125 excursionists.

The East Tennessee officials say that their train was delayed and hour and a half on the Savannah. Florida and Western between Waycress and Jesup, a distance of thirty-nine miles. Their train, they say was twice as long as the Central's and had 300 passengers.

The parlors of the Rallroad Young Men's Christian Association, at 42 1-2 East Wall street, were crowded last night.

A reception was given the members and their families, and it was a success.

Ivery one was delighted and went home both light-hearted and grateful. There was masic, instrumental and vocal, and some good spieches also.

First Professor Barill rendered a selection, and it was done with a spirit and a skill too well known to need comment.

Professor Davis's male quartet followed, sang and conquered.

A song by the railroad double quartet was gratefully received. It completed the musical programme.

A song by the railroad double quartet was gaatefully received. It completed the musical programme.

Dr. Hawthorne, at the conclusion of the singing, addressed the association. He endurated the work of the association and made an eloquent plea for its continuance.

The international secretary, Mr. C. J. Hicks, was then introduced and made a well timed address. Mr. C. A. Licklider, secretary of the city association, followed him. He described the work as it is being done along the great railways of the land.

Mr. H. P. Anderson, state secretary said that Atlanta was the key to the situation in the south, and all efforts should be made to hald it. Mr. Waggoner also spoke and was applauded.

The speaking concluded there was a mixing and mingling—a jolly, informal hand shaking. Then the crowd went home.

Personal Gossip.

Athens, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—If reports are correct there were some ex-ceedingly stormy times in Elbert county on election day at Ruckersville. There was a regular riot in which two negroes probe bly received fatal wounds, and two white men were seriously hurt. A gentleman from that vicinity, is in Athens today and tells the following story:

"Joe Rucker, the third party leader at Ruckersville, had marshaled the negro contingent, into his party in great force, but when they reached the polls were inclined to go slow. The negroes were approached by a democrat and asked then to vote with the democrats. This made Rucker very angry, and he insulted the democrat that was doing the electioneering, and got knocked down for his reward. The negroes took up Rucker's fight and for a short time the proceedings were strikingly like son the campaign scenes in the county of

Some eight or ten white men received bruises and cuts in the fray. Rucker then went to Elberton and began cursing the democrats for all sorts of thieves and scoundrels and said he was going to tele-graph to President Harrison for troops to annihilate the whole party, and got his face mashed again. Things got so warm for Mr. Rucker, who is a well known and influential citizen, that some of his demo-cratic friends took him in charge and car-ried him through the storm and fired him over a high tence with advices to leave over a high tence with advice to leave town for the time being. The election contest in Oconee county is creating considerable talk. and What He Says Indicates That He Will Return to the Fold.

THE DAY IN THE CENTRAL CITY.

A Woman Dies in a Dentist's Chair-New Central Schedules-Personal Gossip and Brief Points About Macon.

Macon, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Bibb is following the example of other places, and this afternoon in the historic Godfrey, the third party was laid to rest with appropriste ceremony. It was an interesting ceremony and was attended by the leading democrats of the county as well as by the few third party apostles as chief mourners.

Now that the party is dead the followers will, it is hoped, return to the democratic ranks.

Judge W. A. Poe, who ran for senator in his district on the third party ticket, and who is a member of one of the oldest and best families in Bibb county said this morn-who is a member of one of the oldest and best families in Bibb county said this morning to The Constitution correspondent that he and his people would return to the democratic ranks, and would vote the democratic ticket if they were assured of free silver and an issue of legal tender by the government.

Such leaders as Judge W. A. Poe will undoubtedly come back again, and will use their influence to bring about such a condition of prosperity to working the classes and "the people" as can only be reached through the doctrines of democracy.

Macon is suffering from a reaction after the political excitement of the last few days. Politicians are already talking over the work that has to be done between now and November 8th when the great fight comes off. It is probable that a meeting of the young men's democratic club will be called for some day next week and then the forces will be organized once more for the struggle. Bibb intends to keep up her record and to gend in a three-thousand majority for Cleveland.

The Macon Brewery.

The Macon Brewing Company seems to be in a bad way, at least so it would appear from the report of the receiver, Mr. J. M. Hazlehurst. Hazlehurst.
This report was filed in the superior court his morning.
The interest on the bonds was due October 1st

The interest on the bonds was due October 185 but the receiver had no money on hand with which to pay this amount of $3,080 and though sixty days are allowed in which to make the payment, he says that he does not think he can make enough money to pay the interest.

Mr. Hazlehurst represents the financial condition of the property as very bad and asks the court for advice.

It is said that a prominent real estate man of Macon has gone north for the purpose of organizing a company to purchase the property of the Macon Brewing Company.

Lälly Threat, a negro woman, was arrested this morning on a charge of attempted incendiatism.

arism. The woman, it seems, attempted to set fire to the residence of MLs Hallie Clark, daughter of Dr. J. O. Clark. The circumstantial evidence was so strong that she was sent to fall.

Annie Williams, a little girl, was also arrested and she told the whole story. She saw Lilly Threat with the oil and rags and saw her go to the place when the fire started.

All the inmates were asleep but fortunately the intense smoke from the kerosne oil awoke them and the fire was extinguished before much damage had been done.

The woman was committed to the superior sourt.

Two cars on the Metropolitan line collided this morning shortly after daybreak.

A car had been left standing on the track hear the Log Cabin Club and the motorman on the car from Bellevue neglected to look ahead until it was too late. Both cars were badly smashed up and the motorman, James Chapman, was bruised considerably.

Yesterday afternoon Mr. W. C. Davis, in the absence of Coroner Knight, was called on to hold an inquest on the body of Ann Jones, a negro woman who died in a dentist's office while having a tooth pulled.

The woman called at the office of a Dr. One Tooth Too Many.

uentist's omce while having a tooth pulled.

The woman called at the office of a Dr. Scoven and asked him to pull some teeth. She was accompanied by her husband.

The doctor administered chloral, about fourteen grains in all, and pulled two teeth. The second toot? was pulled in spite of the woman's protestations that she could not bear the pain. Immediately after the operation she died.

The coroner's jury returned a verdict to the effect that the woman had died of paralysis of the heart.

Hosting Central Cases.

Hearing Central Cases. Judge W. D. Nottingham is sitting today as special master in the United States court, hearing argument on the interventions in the noted case of Mrs. Rowena M. Clarke against the Central railroad.

Mr. H. C. Cunningham, Jr., and Mr. J. R. Lamon, of Augusta, are in attendance on the hearing.

Local and Personal.

The building permits for the month of September in Macon amounted to $15,000. This is not the building season, but it is understood that several very large contracts have been let.

Mrs. Lollie Bell Wylie, of Atlanta, who has taken charge of the society and the woman's department of The Evening News has already made a great improvement in that feature of the paper. The Macon people are glad to have Mrs. Wylie among them this season, and will read her bright work with interest and pleasure. pleasure.

DOCTOR'S FEES AND FREE AD-

According to newspaper reports, a celebrated American surgeon received $5,000 for removing a little wen from a wealthy lady's scalp. The papers fail to state the exact amount of free advertising the doctor managed to obtain.—National Advertiser.

Let's reason together.

Here's a firm, one of the largest the country over, the world over; it has grown, step by step, through many years to greatness.

This firm pays the newspapers good money (expensive work, this advertising!) to tell the people that they have faith in what they sell, so much faith that if they can't benefit or cure they don't want your money.

Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery is sold on this liberal plan. If it doesn't benefit or cure, it costs nothing. It cures Skin, Scalp and Scrofulous affections, as Eczema, Tetter, Salt-rheum, Fever-sores, White Swellings, Hip-joint disease and kindred aliments.

It's the cheapest blood-purifier sold, through druggists, no matter how many hundred doese are offered for its price ($1.00 a bottle), since you pay only for the land of the land o

In Judge Brown's court today Felix Corput colored, was charged with rape on the person of Mariah Lanier, a parlytic, and was committed to jall to await trial. His attorney, Mr. J. R. Cooper, will appeal the case.

The members of the Log Cabin club entertained their friends tonight at their club house in Bellevue, An oyster roast and a german were the features of the evening.

Mrs. Susan Flanders, one of the oldest and best known residents of Macon, died at her home in East Macon last night shortly past 10 o'clock. She has been in feeble health for several months due to her extreme old age, seventy-eight years, and death was consequent on the infirmities of her advanced years. The Whittle school opened its portula this morning with a full enrollment. Mrs. Manson the principal, expects the most prosperous year in the history of this school.

Mr. Henry Wilkins an old blind negro was run over this afternoon by a double mule team and wagon, and will probably die.

The old fellow was crossing Poplar street when a mule team that had started on the run from Sparks' cotton warehouse approached him and the small boy who led him with a stick. The team was going at a fearful pace and was almost on them before the boy saw them. Without a word he left the old man and ran. In another second the unfortunate man was under the horses hoofs and crushed beneath the wheels. He was picked up insensible and in all probability will die from the shock and his injuries.

EMORY STUDENTS HAPPY. They Jubilate Over the Magnificent Victory.

They Jubilate Over the Magnificent Victory.

Some Ringing Speeches.

Oxford. Ga., October 7.—Hurrah for The Constitution which brought us the glad tidings of an overwhelming majority for democracy! and Emory college, democratic to the core, says hurrah for unterrified democracy and the peerless Georgian, W. J. Nothen! So elated were the students over the victory that they met, two hundred and fifty strong, to endorse the action of Georgia's citizens, and to listen to ringing patriotic addresses and oratory that was never exceeded.

The first speaker was Mr. F. B. Shipp, who is proud to call Mississippi his home. He preached sound democratic doctrine, and cheered us with the news that his state would go by a large majority for that great apostle of tariff reform, Grover Cievelind. Mr. Shipp's forensic ability is well known, and he will make a mark in his chosen profession, law. Mr. T. D. Ellis, of Oak Grove, Ga., responded to the lond calls of his fellow students. Mr. Ellis's ability as an orator is recognized and appreciated by all his fellow as a proof of their high esteem, the members of Few society elected him to be one of their mampion debaters last commencement, which position, it is safe to predict, he will fill with credit to himself and to his society. Mr. H. F. Harris, Arp. Ga., was loudly cheered as he took the stand. His short but spicy speech was greatly appreciated. Mr. Marvin Williams. Thomson, Ga., who is from Watson's district made a good speech and predicted the defeat of Watson in November. Marvin won the distinction of first in the sophomore class last spring, and his oratory compares favyrably with his in-fellect. Mr. James Mann, of the old Palmetto State, cheered us with the assurance that the third party is unknown in South Carolina. #### Trying to Beat Joe Wheeler

Florence, Ala., October 7.—(Special.)—
The republican executive committee has secured Dick Austin, the republican candidate for congress in this district, to withdraw from the race in favor of Parson R.
T. Blackwell, the third party candidate. Austin said yesterday in Sheffield that he would retire and would probably work for Blackwell. There has been considerable opposition to Austin among the republicans, and this withdrawal is in the interest of harmony. By the fusoon they hope to defeat General Wheeler. Wheeler, however, is certain to be elected, as the negro vote will go to Ashford, the negro independent candidate.

A Highwayman and Cutthroat.

Augusta, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Mr.

Jack Odom, a South Carolina farmer, who lives forty miles from here over in Edgefield county, while returning home from Augusta, was assaulted by a negro highwayman about three miles from here and robbed of $15. The negro followed Mr. Odom, who is about seveny-five years old, and who was traveling alon ty-live years old, and who was traveling alone. The highway robber cut Mr. Odom's throat with a knife before he got the money from him. Mr. Odom, it is feared, will die from the effects of the wound. The negro is unknown and escaped through the woods.

An Engine Explodes. Watkinsville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—
The engine used in running a ginnery on Mr.
R. K. Reaves's plantation, near Watkinsville, exploded today at 12 o'clock. The machine was completely demolished, but no one hurt, as the hands had all gone o dinner.

Bitten by a Snake. Watkinsville, Ga., October 7.—(Special.)—Mr T. L. Gantt, wife of the former newspaper man, while walking over her plantation this morning was bitten by a polsonous snake. Medical aid was promptly summoned and the wound dressed. She will recover.

Malaria. literally means bad air. Poisonous germs arising from low marshy land, or from de-caying vegetable matter, are breathed into the lungs, taken up by the blood, and un-less the vital fluid is purified by the use of a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, of a good medicine like Hood's Sarsaparilla, the unfortunate victim is soon overpowered. Even in the more advanced cases, where the terrible fever prevails, this successful medicine has effected remarkable cures. Those who are exposed to malaria or other poisons should keep the blood pure by Tak-

City Tax-Paying. City Tax-Paying.

We think the city council ought to act on the suggestion of J. C. Hendrix and take steps to have the incoming legislature amend the charter to change the fiscal year so as to allow the people to pay their taxes in the winter when they have money and not be forced to pay in September, as now required or have their property levied on. Mr. Hendrix has some well-matured ideas upon the subject, but deems it unnecessary to publish them.

Call at the office of the company, 15 Decatur street, and let me take you out and show you those beautiful $200 lots at East Lake. Terms, $10 cash, $6 month, no interest. T. C. Hampton, Secretary.

Mr. Percy B. Price is spending a week with relatives at Jackson, Ga.

Miss Leila Hudson, of Jonesboro, is visiting friends at 27 Markham street.

The many warm friends of Mrs. William B. Johnstone, Jr., regret to know that she leaves the city, next month, for an absence of several months. Mrs. Johnstone is a chaming woman, and will be missed from her circle of friends.

One of the most properous churches in Atlanta, is the Third Baptist church, on Jones avenue. The pastor, Rev. A. H. Mitchell, has began a series of sermons on "Bible Doctrines and characters." On last Sunday the subject was "Creation," which was pronounced a fine sermon. In addition to the church on Jones avenue, three thriving missions are in successful operation in various parts of the city and vicinity.

On Sunday this church will celebrate the missionary centennial, and the home school with the three mission schools are requested to take part.

NOTICE OF LOCAL LEGISLATION
Notice is hereby given that application will be made to the general assembly of Georgia, at its session commencing the first Wednesday in November, 1892, for the passage of an act with the following title, and to amend an act establishing a new charter for the city of Atlanta approved February 28, 1874, and the several acts amendatory thereof, and for other purposes, take part. Third Baptist Church.

New York, October 7.—R. G. Dunn & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: The first week of October shows more activity in spite of the near approach of the presidential election. Business is strictly better at the south on account of, the improvement in the price of cotton; more active at the west, with improved prospects, and only slightly retarded at the east. The expected reaction from the exemely low price of cotton helps business at the south, and although wheat is low in price, it is a little higher than it was a week ago. In general, speculation has disturbed legitimate trade much less during the past quarter than is usual at this season, although transactions in cotton have been exceedingly heavy.

Business is brighter at Baltimore and the packing trade opens with great promise while building transaction—are heavy. At Pittsburg manufactured iron is quite active and in large demand at well supported prices, while business in glass is fair, but the strike of the coal miners embarrasses Monongahein. Nearly all southern cities report a better trade, though at Little Rock crop prospects are not considered encouraging.

At Nashville trade is fair, and at Memphis improving, and decided improvement is noted at New Orleans, with better prices for cotton and good collections.

A Stiffer Tone. Good Reports from All Parts of the Country

cotton and good collections.

A stiffer Tone.

The iron industry is doing well. Notwithstanding the resumption of work by many establishments, which were idle a long time on account of strikes, the consumptions of pig iron apparently exceeds the reduction and the demand gives a decided stiffer tone to the market. Bar iron is still disappointing and rails very dull, but the demand for structural iron keeps the works busy, and plates are surprisingly active. While the output of pig iron is not as large as it was a few months ago, consumption is probably larger and trade in a more healthy condition.

Perhaps the textile industries were never more prosperous than they are now, for while are remarkably low, the demand for goods is large and urgent and the works are crowded with orders

There are signs in an improvement in the prices of cotton goods and sales of wool continue heavy. It is not a satisfactory symtom that speculation is enormous, sales at this city amounting to 1,239,600 bales last week, with an advance of half a cent in price, yet exports of cotton are not large, and of all domestic products the value exported last week was only $5,483,542 against $9,768,989 for the same week last year.

The Foreign Trade.

The Foreign Trade.

Considering the great increase in the imports of merchandise, the state of the foreign trade is hardly encouraging, while imports are in part of materials for manufacture, there is also a quite noteWorthy increase in imports of dutiable articles. The treasury continues to accumulate gold, having anded to its stocks $1,500,000 during the past week and $700,000 in silver, but has put into circulation about $3,000,000 more paper of Various kinds. Although the circulation of money decreased in September there is no indication as yet that the money markets in any part of the country are insufficiently applied.

The Truth About State Banks. he Chicago Tribune bitterly attacks state bank plank in the democratic form, and claims that it is mainly rted by southern democrats.

r contemporary endeavors to convey impression that it is simply a swind-scheme on the part of reckless southventurers, who desire to flood the with a lot of worthless money. It south was always in favor of state bank; that section believed that that imporattribute of sovereignty—furnishing the with currency—ought to be split up hunks, each state to have one. The was against a national bank or a bank United States because it believed in supremacy. Another reason why the favored the state bank shipplasters was a it was able to make a pretty penny avored the state bank shinplasters was a few as able to make a pretty penny them by circulating the trash in the For years southern sharpers started in southern cities, towns, and villages, their wildcat and reddog notes, and them out to southern merchants who ebts at the north and loaned them to a speculators. The creditors who took it, and "dogs" were afraid of it and did it as fast as possible at a discount stuff went drifting from hand to hand the did to the stuff went drifting from hand to hand the discounts until finally the state sovinstitutions busted and the notes sank. The war put an end to that great a shinplaster industry, but the chivaltimes of that section are anxious to

The recent reduction of wages in highly proected industries answers some of this consense, and the testimony of the older ess men of the country should refute the falsehoods about the state banks. For about eighty years the American people got along very well with a state bank currency. They developed their resources and grew powerful and prosperous. There were a few wildcat banks in the frontier states of the west, but exposure was always prompt and they were unable to swindle the public long. The notes of the banks in Georgia, South Carolina, Louisiana and other southern states, were as good as gold all over the union, and even in Canada. During the war confederate prisoners in the north were able to

If we revive this system now it will be better and more closely guarded than in the old days. Efficient state inspection will keep our local banks up to the proper standard.

exchange their Georgia bank notes for

We have already accepted the state ment of our opponents that state bank notes would constitute a local currency. That is precisely what we need. Our gold and silver treasury certificates and national bank notes will give the country a national currency, and the notes of our local banks will then naturally circulate in the localities where they are to be redeemed, and where the people have full knowledge of the resources, standing and credit of the incorporators of the banks. We want just such a currency-a currency that will not drift to the eastern centers and stay

Our Chicago contemporary will find upon investigation that this is no sectional issue. Many of the wisest and soundes financial experts of the east and west favor this reform, and sooner or later it is bound to come.

A Democratic Stimulent.

Tie overwhelming democratic victory in Georgia might stimulate the democrats of Virginia, North Carolina and Alabama to renewed exertions in behalf of their party. The campaign here was not allowed to run itself. It was managed by men whose energy was only equaled by their ability to reorganize the party and to throw life and vigor into the organiza-

When the campaign began there was a very impressive movement away from the party on the part of the farmers. This nad to be overcome, and the arguments necessary to accomplish that desirable result had to be presented in a fair and friendly way. No bitterness was allowed to crop out. The fact was recognized from the first that the element among the farmers which was showing signs of dissatisfaction was amenable to common sense arguments, and the canvass was carried on on this line.

The same campaign will win in Alabama and in the other states we have mentioned. It is bound to win. Men who refuse to respond to the logic of common sense have lost their reason, and we do not think this is true of any large body of southern farmers. Neither Kolb nor his wrongs, if he has any, can cut any figure n the national campaign. Neither he nor any other citizen of Alabama is of any importance whatever compared to the tremendous issues at stake in Nevember. The grievances of Kolb do not hold good against the entire south and any serious defection in Alabama on his account would be like tearing down the state capitol because a rat had got in Bill Smith's cornerib.

The democrats of the south have seen what hard work will do in Georgia. Let them duplicate in its vigor and friendlihere, and the result will be all that a patriotic heart could wish for.

One of the Many.

A man named Chauncey Johnson was notified by the New York police, the other day, to leave the city, on the ground that he was a suspicious person.

Johnson is now an old man, penniles and shabby. Yet within the past forty years he has been the posesssor of $1,000,-000. This large sum was accumulated by sneak thieving. The fellow has been known to slip into a bank and carry off $400,000 in broad daylight. Of course he was occasionally picked up and convicted, but during his forty years of crime he got off with ony fifteen years in prison. What became of his million dollars? ill-gotten gains rarely ever profit a man. Johnson spent his boodle in feeing lawyers and in dissipation. In his old age he is left without a friend and without a dollar, and is a wanderer upon the face of the earth.

Ever since the first criminal, men have found that the way of the transgressor is hard. Even the cautious, clear-headed rascals who keep on the safe side of the law and rob people in a conventional and decorous way, have no end of trouble. They are disappointed in their pet ambitions, their enterprises go wrong, and the work of sin or death in their families makes them wretched.

Chauncey Johnson could have saved a competency in forty years of honest work, and that would have been far better than his bitter recollection of the stolen million that scorched his hands and his soul. And the other thieves who bring a finer art to bear in their business must feel at the close of their ill-spent lives that a life of honest work is more blessed and is far happier. Stung by remorse, and looking forward to long-delayed justice the other side of the grave, there is little to be thankful for.

A million dollars may or may not be a good thing. It depends upon how you get it and use it.

This Is Good News.

Brick Pomeroy, in his erratic paper, Advance Thought, accepts General Weaver's story concerning his reception at Macon and Atlanta, and then delivers himself of this startling piece of information:

For some time we have been corresponding with M. M. Stow, of Dahlonega, on the purchase of several hundred acres of gold-bearing land in Lumpkin county, Georgia, in the Dahlonega mining Astrict. Not caring to invest money, time and thought, or to invite and recommend men to invest or to seek residence in a state where its dominant party mobs ladies and gentlemen, and by brute force denies freedom of speech, and denies to taxpayers the right to listen to great truths correctly told by those who are striving to help all honest persons to better their conditions. Therefore, we decline to buy property in Georgia till the democratic party of that state is broken and routed from its powers to mob and to enslave its victims in ignorance, and advise all who believe in the right of speech on public topies to invest neither capital or labor in Georgia till the state passes into the political, legislational and educational control of the people on the line of work now being done by the people's party.

We respect sober, intelligent democracy, but have no love for, or fear of, demagogues and mobocrats.

The little boy's egg thrown in a random fashion at Macon has done its perfect work. It has caused Brick Pomeroy to fence himself out of Georgia and to hold back his endorsement, as well as his contemplated investment.

This is something to be thankful for. We have had developers, exploiters and olitical adventurers of Brick Pomeroy's kidney before, and our people have known them to their sorrow. The honesty of the man and his temper are well shown in his readiness to accept the slanderous statement of the man who only the other day said that the Georgians were as 'venomous as ratlesnakes!"

The gold fields and other fields in Georgia do not need the developing touch of Weaver's henchman.

We are waiting for Editor Halstead to up and remark with an awful frown that somebody or something was counted out in Georgia last Wednesday. If he will keep right on and say the voters themselves per formed the counting-out act, we shall ap pland the statement.

Grace says he won't put out an anti-snap ticket in New York city. This is probably because there is nothing substantial in it for Grace.

Editor Cockerill has been hitting The World some very severe diffs recently. But, alas! The World is about what Editor Cockerill made it. In this hour of his need the only defenders that W. R. Grace can find are Colonel Cockerill's two republican newspapers. Editor Dana is never caught napping. Before leaving for Europe, he "paired with an honorable republican." This is a vote for Cleveland. The republican papers are not making very lengthly remarks on John Sherman's greenback utterances.

The Chleago Times says: "Dispatches re-ceived in the city are to the effect that Lot-ta will in all probability nover be able to dance again. This is said to be the opinion of her physician. One of the complications of her present illness is a spinal affection and it is this phase of it that precludes the probabili-ty of future work in the special roles that have made Lotta rich and famous. Her manager, D. S. Bonta, is said to have notified the mem bers of her company that they are at liberty to accept other engagements for the season and all dates are canceled. Lotta is by all odds the wealthiest actress in America. She owns much valuable real estate in several large cities, and is one of the principal stockholders in McVicker's theater of this city. Her wealth s estimated at $2,000,000. Her full name is 15tta Mignon Crabtree. She will be forty-five years old the 26 of next month. She was born at 750 Broadway, New York. When she was seven yea rsold her parents moved to Cal-ifornia. She made her stage debut in the lit-tle mining town of La Porte in that state, and when nine years old she appered be fore a San Francisco audience. Her song, and dances captivated crowds at the variety theaters in those days of gold. Since then she has been a favorite in every important town on the continent. Among her greatest successes were the characters of Topsy, Little Nell, the Marchloness. The Little Detective, Mussette, Bob and Zip. Up to the time of her present illness she was as sprightly as ever, and when on the stage still appeared to be a girl hardly out of her teens. Throughout her long professional career Lotta's private charcter has been above reproach and no breat f scandal has ever touched her name."

Editor Please Stovall, of The Savannah Press, pays this pretty tribute to Baby Ruth: "Here's long life to you, Baby Ruth. Twelve mouths have passed since you first crept into your crib on Madison avenue and gave more joy than the White House or the Mill building held. You are just one year old, but already you have more friends than the infant Alfonso in Spain. Your father's sturdiness and your mother's beauty would carry you through, Baby Ruth, if you were left an orphan tomorrow, for the people would adopt you as a "public trust." You are running for president, Baby Ruth, but you don't know it. An interesting story is told of Major J. C. C. Black, the truth of which is vouched for by a gentleman of unquestionable veracity, says The Jackson Herald.

The Jackson Herald.

When the war broke out Mr. Black was on the eve of graduating from the Georgetown college in Kentucky. His valedictory had been carefully prepared and submitted to the president of the college for criticism.

The president was a union man while every fiber of young Black's anatomy pulsated in the cause of the south. The valedictory was fairly recking with "rebel sentiments. The president commanded the young student not to read it, but to prepare another. This he refused to do. He was then informed that if he read the document his diploma would be denied him.

This was a great blow to the ambitious young scholar, for he had looked forward with great pride to the possession of his sheepskin. He did not hesitate however, but left the college forwith and enlisted in Morgan's cavalry, where he handled the sword as dexterously as he had the pen.

The world knows the heroic record of the gallant private in the struggle that followed. He came to Georgia in Georgia's defense and here he remained one of her most honored citizens.

The sequel to this early episode is interesting. Long after the sounds of battle had died away the young soldier was struggling against adverse conditions caused by the war. Often he recalled the circumstances that had lost him his diploma. He did not regret his first resolve, but he did so lon to have that evidence of scholarship which every student prizes so highly.

One day a big heavy envelope came to him through the mails. His delight was supreme when it was found to contain the long coveted diploma. An accompaning note said: "By a unanimous vote of the faculty, J. C. C. Black is hereby awarded his diploma." etc.

That was the proudest day in Major Black's life.

On Mr. Marchbank's farm he found indications of diamond-bearing rock. Searching closely he came upon a narrow vein of rock which is identical with a deposit containing diamonds in Mexico. He found the crystals belonging to a pure diamond formation and after working four days discovered this diamond. He thinks that there are more there and will devote a week to the search. #### "A Most Wonderful Feat."

Editor Constitution: I wish to congratulate you on the most wonderful journalistic feat ever accomplished in this country to-wit: The gathering and consolidating of the election

The gathering and consolidating of the election returns for the entire state of Georgia on the same day of the election, so that it is presented to your thousands of readers at breakfast on the following morning. Such a thing is almost incredible. Only a few years ago if this work had been accomplished in a month's time the people would have been satisfied, and if your work of yestorder, bad been predicted that sie one would terday had been predicted then no one would have believed it possible. The news you send us of a democratic majority in glorious old Georgia of 70,555 is the bestwee have had since 1884, when you first told us of Cleveland's elec-tion. This result is more largely due to The Constitution than any other one agency in the state, and for which you deserve thanks of all Georgians. If every man in the state was a subscriber to The Constitution there would be few third party adherents. These people are honest. They have been de-ceived and misled by bad men, such as Wea-ver, Post, Watson and Buck, and need only to know the truth to act right. We, as demo-crats, should treat them kindly. They are our people, our brothers and kindred. Thousands of them were the best soldiers the world ever saw, and are good, honest citizens, and only want light and truth. We are all tax-ridden by an infamous federal high protective tariff. To throw off this galling yoke is a work calling for the united, harmonious effort of the

THE LITERARY WAY.

the Thing That After All Matter Most for Each One Is Happiness.

But the Thing That After All Matter Most for Each One Is Happiness.

John Morley's lecture on the study of literature.

Goethe said: "that nothing is more frightful than a teacher who only knows what his scholars are intended to know."

There is a cultivation of the sympathies and imagination, he quic'ening of the moral vision. The great need in modern culture, which is scientific in method, rationalistic in spirit and utilitarian in purpose, is to find some effective agency for cherishing within us the ideal. That is, I take it, the business and function of literature.

Burks said: "What is the education of the generality of the world? Reading a parcel of books? No! Restraint and discipline, examples of virute and of justice—these are what form the education of the world."

I agree with those who say that the steady working down one of these lists (the best hundred books) would end in the manufacture of that obnoxious product—the prig. A pirg has been defined as an animal that is over-fed for its size. Those who are curious as to what they should read in the region of pure literature will do well to peruse my frient. Mr. Frederick Harrison's volume called "The Choice of Books."

One of the noblest masterpieces in the literatures of civil and political wisdom is to be found in Burke's three pieces on the American war—his speech on taxation in 1774, on conciliation in 1775, and his letter to the sherifs of Bristol in 1777. They are an example without fault of all the qualities which the critic, whether a thorist or an actor, of great political situations should strive by nighr and by day to possess. There are great personalities like Burke who marched through history with voices like a clarion trumpet and something like the glitter of swords in their hunds.

As Goethe said, if you would understand an author, you must understand his age. The same things are just as true of a book. If you would comprehend it you must know the age. There are relations between great compositions and the societies from which we have fortunes of great conceptions of truth and virtue.

I am strong for attention to expression, if that attention be executed the right way. It has been said a million times that the foundation of expression in speech or writing is sincerity. It is as true now as that thas ever been. Right expression is a part of character. As somebody has said by learning to speak with precision you learn to think with correctness; and firm and vigorous speech lies through the cultivation of high and noble sentiments.

through the cultivation of high and holes sentiments.

The thing that matters most, both for happiness and for duty, is that we should habitually live with wise thoughts and right feelings. Literature helps us more than other studies to this most blessed companionship of wise thoughts and right feelings, and so I have taken this opportunity of earnestly commending it to your interest and care.

Georgia and Florida.

From The Richmond Times.
Georgia and Florida, two more members of the solid south, have spoken, and driven two more nails in the coffin of the third party. In both these states Weaver, Field and Lease had made special efforts, and had telegraphed, as they did in Arkansas, that they were sure of carrying them, but as the election returns come in we find that—as in Arkansas—the democrats have swept both states by large majorities, the third party annex to radicalism having polled in Florida only 6,000 votes in all.

in all.

All doubts about a solid south, threfore are removed and the reason is very plain. Southern men may talk about abandoning the old democratic party as much as they choose.

net rule, they will be very apt to come to their senses and vote, according to the first law of nature, for self-defense. This is what carried Arkansas, Georgia, Florida and Alabama, the only four southern states in which elections have been held so far, and is what will carry Virginia, the Car-olinas, and all the other southern states. The electoral vote of the south may be safe-ly put down for Grover Cleveland.

COUNTY FATHERS.

They Met in Deferred Session Yesterday Morning.

The board of county commissioners met yes terday morning.

It was a deferred session, there having been no meeting at the regular time last Wednesday. All of the members were present.

The Consolidated street Railway Again. Mr. Joel Hurt, of the Atlanta Cons Street Rallway company, presented a petition asking that the company be relieved from paving the extension of the Inman Park line between the tracks. He claimed that this sh because the country lines did not be done because the country lines did not yield sufficient revenue to pay for the paving of the country roads, and that if they were required to pave the country electric lines they could not be built. Thus for years the country public would be deprived of the convenience of an electric line. He added that

Mr. Collier opposed the granting of the petition. He said that in this, as a laways he was on the side of the people against the corporations, and that the road was to be built not as a pub-lic benefit but to improve the land of the Mr. Will Northen, one of the gentlemen

Mr. Will Northen, one of the gentlemen present was given the floor and took issue with Mr. Coller and said that the petition was presented principally on behalf of people who lived on the proposed route and who wanted to ride. There was a lively coloque between Mr. Nutting, Mr. Collier and Mr. Haralson, another visitor. Mr. Nutting and Mr. Haralson, another visitor. Mr. Nutting and Mr. Haraison claiming that the road was badly wanted and would benefit property, and Mr. Collier intimating that the road was being built in the interest of the Kirkwood Land Company, and saying that he knew a road that could be built at once.

Mr. Hurt Opposed the Opposition Line. Mr. Hurt remarked that he would give $5,000 all roads could be required to pay for paydone so much for the county and paid so much into its treasury it should be preferred over new companies.

Mr. Collier replied that the consolidated had already received more from the county than it had given it, and its franchise was worth more than it would ever pay in taxes. Mr. Thomson, county attorney said that it would be illegal to relieve one road from the paving and not relieve all. That for a sixy-foot road it was not necessary, but that a The Petition Referred.

Mr. Collins and Dr. Nelms voted for the petition, and Mr. Collier and Dr. Wilson against it. Chairman Hunnicut refused to vote so there was a tie and the petition was a voter and the whole that eaving it in "statu quo."

Mr. Collins explained his vote by sayin that he was in favor of the proposed road be Mr. Collier replied that the roads were not built to benefit the farmer, but always to the property of some land company to increase Baker's Complaint. Oliver Baker, a prominent farmer from the Adamsville district was present, and made complaint about the way the roads near his land were worked. He asked that they stop working roads in West End and around Mr. Collins's place and work his a little.

The Roswell Bridge Free. The Roswell bridge matter was referred to the bridge committee and the chairman of the board with power to act. The bridge matter has already been settled. The bridge was purchaved for $8,000, of this sum, Fulton pays $5,000, Cobb $2,000 and the town of Roswell $1,000. The purchase makes the Mr. Jack Snalding's Petitions.

Mr. Spalding presented a request that the be worked, and took occasion to state that his district, the Peachtere district, had won the banner in Fulton, by not casting a single third party vote. AMS request was granted.

The East Lake Railway Company. Mr. Shubrick presented a petitior of the to East Lake. The proposed route is: From the corner of Marietta and Forsyth, out For-syth to Peachtree, Peachtree to Ellis, Ellis to lvy, Ivy to Baker, Baker to Predmont avenue Piedmont avenue to Forest avenue, out For est avenue, Summit street, and Angier avenue, to the Williams mills road, and thencalong that road through Edgewood to the lake. The county franchise for the proposer route was granted.

The Peachtree Road Comes Up Again. Messrs, Alex King and George Hillyer, representing Mr. Culpepper and Captain Burks requested the opening of the old Feachtree road, which had been closed. On motion of Mr. Colins the matter was postponed till the next meeting.

The Jail Matter Goes Over.

The Jall Matter Goes Over.

The matter of the light and plans for the new jail was postponed till the next meeting. Dr. Ell Griffin, county physician, presented his report of the number of deaths in the county institutions and the sick men there. This gave Mr. Collins the opportunity to ask if he had included the death of the third party.

Other Business Transpeted. A petitior was presented from Miss Sarah Huff asking that a new road be opened from Chattahoochee avenue to Marietta street. It was referred to the committee on roads and bridges.

The finance committee was authorized to borrow $500 or so much thereof as was necessary to pay off outstanding bills.

The corner of wheat and Jackson was ordered to be made the permanent polling place fourth ward. dered to be made to for fourth ward.

Mr. Potts has offered a reward of $100 for the capture of the burglar.

Yesterday morning the family of Mr. W. D. Ellis discovered that their home at 193 Washington street had been robbed of a large amount of valuable jewelry.

Among the articles stolen were, a dismond pin; a gold neckless; two gold percils; gold breas; pln; gold ring; pair of gold earrings; gold brooch; gold tring, opal stone encircled with small diamonds; one large cameod brooch, with white 'ily on frost gold back; ladies watch and many other things.

Yesterday Chief of Police Connolly

Yesterday Chief of Police Connolly issued several thousand circulars containing a list of the articles stolen from Mr. Potts's redence. Over five hundred of these circulars were mailed to the police of the various dies of the country.

The entire detective force is at work on the two big robberies. Chief Connolly has detailed two extra offices to assit than in making a vigilant search for the profesional band of jewelry thieves that is ordently doing the city.

Both Chief of Police Connolly and Chief of Detectives Wright are determined to capture the slick-fingered gang, and to the end they are putting forth extra efforts.

As yet they have been unable to hit upon any clue that will lead them to the discovery of the gang.

Any member of minor burglaries of valuable jewelry have been reported to the plice, and they are working on all the cases.

"What did you leave them for?"

"Great Scott, your honor, you couldn't peet a man to live with all six, could you?

"Well, hardly; but you shouldn't have me ried them. What did you do that for?"

"To drown my sorrows, judge. That after the first one. She drove me to it, the second one gave me twice as much so it went, until I had six times as much any man ought to have, and I quit. It's best any man ought to have, and I quit. It's best any of them."

"And it will be some time before you any of them again," said the judge. "Are you sure of that, your honor?" inquire the prisoner, hopefully.

"Quite sure, for I'm going to sentence you ten years in the penitentiary."

"And there's no marrying or giving in marriage there, your honor?"

HERE'S GOOD NEWS. TWO BOLD NEGROES MAY

IN ENORMOUS LAND SALE YESTERDAY ONE 18 RUN DOWN AND CAUGHT.

While the Leader Has Escared, but Is Being Pursued, and if Caught He Will Grace a Hickory Limb.

Two bold negroes attempted an unmedionable crime in Lithonia last night. The leader of the two got away-the other is in jail—and dozens of people are debating what to do with him. Only the fear that the prisoner was bu the dupe of the one that escaped is all that And yet the rope is sensitive with life for the neck of the guilty wretch—if only his guilt was assured.

The Story of the Crime. On the edge of the town is a pleasant little cottage—the home of Mr. McCook.

Thursday night McCook was absent About 9 o'clock there was a tapping at a window pane. Through the glass Mrs. Mc-

"Let me in," he demanded. "I want to stay all night. If you do not I will kill "Get away from there at once," Mrs. McCook responded, "or I will shoot you dead."

For over two hours the negro walked around the house while the affrighted wo-man watched with painful anxiety. At last the noise of his footsteps ceased, but it was evident that he had not left the premises. It was not until the welcome dawn burst upon the scene that the lady felt safe and ventured to sleep.

Last night Mr. McCook was still absent.

Mrs. McCook had no fear of a return of her tormentor, but she was fortunate in having retired for the night when the front door was burst open and two negroes—one of them the villain of the night before stood inside the room.

"D—n you," said the leader, "we have got you now, and will kill you if you make a noise. We are going to stay all night."

Just then the visiting ladies began to scream in the room adjoining. The discovery that others were in the house hastened the exit of the intruders, but they continued around the house. After an hour's guard Mrs. McCook hailed a passing

Several empty cars were standing on the railroad siding. Phillips and Ponder walked down the railroad going on either side of the cars. As they did so the two negroes, who were Inderneath, emerged and ran. One of them was caught. The other escaped with half a dozen bullets sent

General Phil Cook and his force were busy yesterday consolidating the vote and it appears that the constitutional amend-ments are all adopted. Unless counties yet to be heard from increase the vote against the amendments very largely, they are all carried. If this proves true, Governor Northen will issue a proclamation right away, convening the general assembly Monday week, October 17th. One of the amendments provides for annual sessions of the legislature, each session to last fifty days, the general assembly meeting on the third Monday in October. Heretofore the Assembly met in November.

One group which entertained the governor during a pleasant call yesterday morning included Hon. J. W. Robertson, of Habersham; Joe James, of Douglas, and H. W. J. Ham, of Hall. This trio recalled incidents of the campaign, swapped stories and seem-ed right glad that there will be another hance to get at the new party.

Conspicuous in the governor's office yes-terday was the beautiful blue silk banner which the ladies of Wilkinson county pre-sented to him on Saturday. All his callers admired it and the governor told them they just should have seen the young lady who just should have seen the young lady who made the presentation.

Governor Northen had no opportunity yesterday to do official work. His office overflowed with visitors all day. Every caller predicted that the majority next month in the national election will be larger than Wednesday's. Everywhere recruits are coming into the party. The third party people are disappointed and despondent. Tom Watson has not been heard from but he will, of course, redouble his exertions. Watson's political future depends on this fight. The democrats here are confident that Major Black will be elected, although they know that Watson will work hand in glove with the republicans and continue inciting the blacks against the whites. It is predicted that if Harrison is re-elected and Watson is defeated, that Tom will get an office at Washington or abroad.

It was reported at the capitol yesterday that John Sibley had a long caucus with the republican postmaster of Marietta Thursday, and it is presumed that John is endeavoring to arrange a fusion between the third party and the republicans in the seventh.

THERE WILL BE CONTESTS.

There Will Be One in the sensee and Three in the House.

There will be several contests before the next legislature. Just how many is not certain, but it is probable there will be one before the senate and three or four before the house.

The third party candidate, Mr. Ramsay, will, it is understood, contest the election of Hon. M. P. Reese senator from the nine-tenth. He claims that the returns from Wilkes are not properly returned. The democrats on the other hand have glaring frauds as to the interest of Ramsay in Columbia and Lincoln counties.

There is to be a contest from Webster, but that is between two democrats.

Franklin is returned as favorable to the third party candidate and the democrats there have evidence of glaring irregularities, which they color in the county and there are about 600 defaulters on the tax digest who must have voted to have brought up the total to the figure shown by the returns. The third party candidate and the democratis there are a lage number of illegal and imported voters and that it will be easily to establish the right of the democrat candidate to his seet.

Recent Exploits.

John Moore, Another Member of the Gang Was Also Examined—The Case Will be Resumed Today.

The story of the Moore-Delk gang was re-lated in the criminal branch of the superior court yesterday aternoon.

"Fatty" Johnson, an alleged member of the gang, was arraigned upon the charge of burg-lary, and among the witnesses who testified in behalf of the state were Tom Delk and John Moore, the two original captives who have been furnishing the brotherhood with its now very familiar name.

have been furnishing the brotherhood with its now very familiar name.

The father of the defendant, an elderly gentleman who bears a striking resemblance to Col. W. A. Huff, of Macon, and is not altogether unlike the picture of Gen. Lee, sat next to his attorney, Mr. Frank L. Haralson, and was an interested spectator throughout the trial. The defendant himself, in a cool and, apparently disinterested manner, sat quietly in his chair, and occasionally swepthis eyes over the courtroom. The interest which he seemed to manifest in the trial was rather that of a by-stander than a man who was indicted under the grave charge of burglary. It was shown in the testimony that a store had been robbed in the month of September. The hour when the entry occurred was between 8 and 9 o'clock, and a bright electric lamp was blazing in full view of the seene when the daring burglars, according to the testimony, presented themselves in front of the deep.

When his testimony was concluded the court adjourned until today.

EVERYBODY LAUGHED.

James Mackie asfGrimesey of "Cellar Door Fame Did It.

James B. Mackie, the original Grimes of "The Bunch of Keys," is the star of the farce company which appeared at DeGive's last night in "Grimes's Cellar Door."

The audience was a large one, something which cannot be said of many audiences present at the theater this season. Mr. Mackie simply claims to give a performance which makes spectators laugh. He succeeded and did more, for they shouted over and over.

The piece is of the variety order with musical specialties interspersed. Among the features were Mr. Mackie's parodies, Miss Louise Sandford's specialties, the popular five little Quaker widows, a dance purporting to illustrate the wedding of the lilly and the rose, and musical selections by Miss Alice Montague and J. Royer West. The wedding dance was a pretty act, in which the characters were dainty costumes of white and garlands of flowers. The dancing of the girls was applauded. Mr. Mackie was very funny and provoked a great deal of laughter. He is one of the best known farce comedians on the stage. A comparison which will convey, more to Atlanta theatergoers than almost any other, is to remark that he reminds one of Frank Deshon, both in the earnestness and in the character of his work. His facial contortions were amusing.

There was a quartet composed of Messrs. Miller, West, Wright and Collins, who introduced original songs, medleys and imitations of banjos, bells, church chimes and steam whistles. Miss Sandford made a hit as Pandora.

dora. Miss Bigger suggested Carmencita in looks, and Miss Carey was another of the attractive members of the cast with a musical voice. The merriment of the audience indicated that it enjoyed the performance heartily. The piece will be given this afternoon and again tonight.

ticipate. Charley Roberts is one of the root popular young men in the city and under his captaincy the Guard will make a fine showing in New Yerk. His comrades have every confidence in his ability. All the members of the company will go along. Colonel J. F. Burke, who was for a long time commandant of the Gate City Guard will accompany the boys to New York by special invitation. While captain of the Guard he carried the company through the north in 1879, and was everywhere received and entertained royally. On this trip he will meet many of his old friends.

Colonel Burke was chief of the staff of Governor Alex H. Stevens, and bears the honor of being the founder of the Guard Memorial armory, the handsome armory on Peachtree street. He brought about the famous reunion between the blue and the gray that occurred in Atlanta in 1880. Colonel Burke is one of the finest military men in the country.

Captain A. C. Snead, who also commanded the company for several years, and who is greatly beloved by the boys, will go with them on this trip upon the urgent invitation of his old command. Colonel Snead will wear his old uniform, and will be a Guard again on this trip. Lieutenants Hewitt and Sciple will also go along.

Mr. Peter Clarke, who was a lieutenant in the company a few years ago, will accompany his former comrades to the metropolis. He was connected with the Guard for years and was both a commissioned and non-commissioned officer during his connection with it.

Six or seven years ago he drilled a class of young ladies at DeGive's. The class made quite a hit, and was styled the "Broom Brigade," as they used decorated brooms instead of guns. Lieutenant Clarke will be "in it" with the boys while away.

Clarke will be "in it" with the boys while away.

The company will be entertained at many other places while away. It has a great reputation abroad and everywhere they go they will be given the best going. Already a dozen invitations from different companies have been sent them.

Last night Captain Kendrick received as invitation from the seventeenth separate company from Flushing, L. I., asking the Guard to be their guests. The invitation was accepted and on next Thursday evening the Guard will go down to Flushing from New York as the guests of the Seventeenth and spend the evening. They will go on a special train.

The Cuard will also go on an excursion to Poughkeepsie, N. Y., where they will be the guests of the Davy Crockett Hook and Ladder Company.

They will also visit the Westarsoint Millitary academy and go through R.— Box other places will be visited and the hospitality of many other companies will be enjoyed.

Everything points to a grand trip for the Guard, and every one wishes them a royal good time. Its membership is composed of splendid young fellows, all representing good families, and its trip through New York will be one continued round of triumph. The boys will return to Atlanta in about two weeks.

THE NEW YORK MARKET. the Floor of the New York Stock

New York, October 7.—The stock market was active today and falling off in volume tousiness was generally attributed to the ear approach of the Columbus celebration. ransactions aggregated only 236,000 shares gainst 276,000 yesterday. There were, neverteless, several movements of importance.

Transactions aggregated only 236,000 shares against 276,000 yesterday. There were, nevertheless, several movements of importance and titularly in industrial group, which Wall street is now taking an active interest. Chicago as advanced to $3.24, highest prices ever recorded and shorts and cattle feeding was also prominent to 64.14, the best price since the present upward movement set in. General Electric was another stock that sold at the highest price yet reached. It advanced to 119.7-8 on animated dealings for that stock. Edison Huminating advanced 1.1-8 per cent, 107.58 and later dropped to 105. The general railroad list improved to the extent of 1-4 and 7-8 per cent in the early trading, but later yielded 1-4 to 11-8 per cent, the latter for New England and Heading. There was more or less realizing but the effect upon prices was slight until money hardened. On the strength of this, the bears made an attack upon the list, but losses, as already noticed, were small and in final transactions a rally of 1-8 @ 3-8 ensued. Among the specialties American tobacco jumped from 113-24 to 118 reacted to 116 and closed at 116 a rally of 1-8 @ 3-8 ensued. Among the specialties American tobacco jumped from 113-8-4 to 118, reacted to 116 and closed at 116-3-4; preferred was one point higher. National Cordage shares declined 1-2 for common and 7-8 for preferred, but subsequently rose 1-2 @11-4 when it became known that the directors had declared a regular quarterly dividend of 2 per cent on prefeerrd stock and had raised the rate on common to 3 per cent or to a basis of 12 per cent per annum. The market left off quiet and weak for railings and firm for the Industrials. Railway bonds were generally firm.

ufacturers are unable to sell except at a concession. Our market opened at 16 points decline for the immediate deliveries and from 185 points for the more distant positions. This decline was caused entirely by the selling of the local long interest, which carried a large line o long cotton. On the decline their holdings passed into the hands of the commission houses, and the sellers were quick to secure the cotton they had parted with. This demand caused a sharp rally, which was lost when the recepts were posted heavier than carlier estimates. Subsequently the receipts at the interior towns, pointing to 30,00 bales, against $8,000 bales the year of the $,550,000 bales crop, brought some outside selling orders from those who had handsome profits. The execution of these orders caused a break, and the market became dull, The Arkansas and Tennessee state crop reports, indicating a general improvement in condition, together with the increasing movement at the interior towns, caused a gradual liquidation this afternoon, which finally brought about a demoralised market, January selling at 8.16, a decline of 22 points from yesterday's closing quotations. As yet there is no evidence that the strong people who sold yesterday were buying the cotton, it seeming to lodge in out, or hands a dentified with the adsold yesterday were buying the cotton, it seeming to lodge in other hands than those identified with the ad-vance. The decline today was so unexpected that the vance. The decilae today was so unexpected that the market was without any short interest to sustain it. A reaction upwards can be expected tomorrow on account of the anticipated unfavorable bureau report on Monday, as, while the state reports for the past three weeks have shown an improvement, the government report is expected to be unfavorable.

By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager. By Private Wire to B. W. Martin, Manager. NEW YORK, October 7—Liverpool this morning was originally 3-54d higher, subsequently lost the entire improvement on a general desire to realize. As we have said in our letters and messages this week we have had some doubt about the ability of Europe to follow the rapid advance which has transpired, and the fact has in a measure proven true. This, however, would probably have had no special influence upon values on this side had it not been for a continuation of circumstance which transpiring all at once, gave an easier tendency.

side had it not been for a continuation of circumstancs which, transpiring all at once, gave an easier tendency to prices. Firstly, the weather today, as reported from all over the cotton belt, was favorable in the extreme and in so far was a disappointment, as zome apprehension, and some expectation of frost had been entertained. In addition to this, receipts, both today and for tomorrow, are expected to show more free while the interior movement today has also been comparatively speaking, good. We would mention, however, to sur friends that the comparison of the interior of the int ever, to our friends that the comparison of the inte-rior today is a misleading one. The amount coming in sight this week is 140,000 bales less than last year, in sight this week is 140,000 bales less than last year, and all in all the situation showed no speair! features of weakness. However, as we have said, a favorable October will make a great difference in the ultimate yield, and this point must be closely watched in order not to fall into "lesiance error as last year. Our impress" 1718 1st, with a crop of 7,500,000 to 7,500,000 allows and above, how "er, prices now are about right, and promise no strong and above, the standard of the standard search point from here, we dwell upon it with great ear." ses, as our friends south can better see and deter line the situation than we. THE CHICAGO MARKET Pontures of the Speculative Movement in CHICAGO, October 7.—A strong feeling pervaded the wheat market during the early part of the session today, and prices for the first hour or so were about 1-4c above yesterday's close. Later there was generous selling, under which all the advance were gradually lost. Still later there was good buying at the reduction and a rally of about 3-4c, clcing firm near the top. December tarted at 76 3-8c against 76 5-8c at the close yesterday, sold up to 771-8c, broke to 76 3-4c, advanced to 771-2 and closed at 773-8.

Corn was quiet but stronger early in the session, influenced chiefly by the firmness in wheat and provisions, but as both of these weakened later, corn also lost some of its strength. There was nothing of special interest in the market, and the bullish sentiment was not very general, as there was free selling on all hard spots. December opened at 451-8c weakened to 443-4c, rallied with wheat toward the close and closed firm at 451-8c, an advance of 1-8c over yesterday's final figures.

451-8c, an advance of 1-8c over yesterday's final figures.

Oats were steady, fluctuations for the active options being confined to a range of 3-8c with the close at top figures, and 3-8c above yesterday's close.

Hog products started higher on good buying by local bulls and some advance in live hogs at the yards, but on the advance a good many longs began to realize, and the early advance in hogs being lost there was a considerable drop in the product. The close shows an addrop in the product. The close shows an ad rance of 71 c in November pork, but a loss of a like amount. January lard and ribs are 21-2c off.

CHICAGO October 7.—We are constantly told that there is no demand for our wheat told that there is no demand for our wheat, that the English markets are overstocked, yet we have a record of clearances of fully 800,000 bushels of wheat and flour today with London, Liverpool and Paris all higher. It is true the English country markets are very much depressed, but that is principally owing to the very poor quality of their wheat. During the early part of the session there was a great dearth of orders. Trading was very light some of the parted beers believe about the light, some of the noted bears being about the only sellers. A few of the light holders were inclined to sell out hoping to buy lower the early part of next week. Later in the session the buying for foreign and domestic ac-counts became quite general in New York, Duluth, Chicago, and other points which caused a fine feeling. Towards the close the local traders who had taken the short side this morning were disposed to increase their holdings should the market go either up or down. The estimated receipts of 775 cars of corn tomorrow depressed the market for awdile Later, however, shippers became large buyers. This together with the ad-vance in wheat caused rather a fine closing. The large and incresing stock and receipts were the depressing features in corn, but the shipping demand is unusually large and the market appears strong. Oats were firm and steady with very little change. Market was very narrow. The cash and sample market for wheat and oats was higher; corn unchanged. The hog product seems to be getting rather high in view of the approaching packing season. The holders who have been interested in the October deal and who were larger buyers for the January delay and who were interested in the Oc-tober deal and who were the prin-cipal cause of the recent advance, appeared to be liberal sellers today. Although we are not able to advise short sales owing to the condition of the market, which is largely controlled by a few parties, we would advise by all means for our customer to take profits on all long stuff bought, pork lard or ribs.

Councilman Meador's heart has been buched by the juvenile criminals Atlanta is now schooling, harboring and failing to

For some time the junior member from the sixth has been studying the Gip South gang and trying to devise some plan by which that candidate for chaingang distion and his kind can be saved. Natually the councilman's mind turned to s se of refuge, but the instant he began ring on that he discovered that Atlanta had made two or three abortive efforts to establish one. But Mr. Meador could see no better plan than the one which first came to him and continued his investigation antil now he is ready to go to work.

"I think it is wholly wrong to send these children to the stockade," he said, "but as it is, nothing else can be done. If one is out there he invariably comes worse than he goes in. It's certain to kill all the good left in him and almost as certain to make a worse criminal out of him It's for that class of offenders that I want to see the house of refuge established. "How will you do it?" he was asked.

"I have talked with members of the county commission and I think we can find help there. That's one reason I introduced that resolution at the last meeting of the council, asking for the appointment of the committee to confer with the commission. Mr. Stephens and Mr. McWaters are my associates and we will begin work with the county commission as soon as pos-

"Why not let the oity establish the house "Why not lef the oity establish the house of refuge, why fetch the county in?"
"Because the city now gives more to the county than the county gives to the city. Then the refuge would do the county as much good as the city and being so benefited should help especially as the place would be outside the city. Together we could buy a farm, equip it and on it these young boys could be made work. By and by we could establish workshops and other industries, but at, first it would be a place where the young culprits would have their minds turned on agriculture."
"Wouldn't it be a burden on the taxpayers?"

"The taxpayers would more gladly pay to support boys in a house of refuge where something could be done for them than to support the same boys in a convict camp. Atlanta isn't the only town in the state that has juvenile offenders, and if we build the house of refuge the bad kids of other towns will come here." the house of refuge the bad kids of other towns will come here."

"By no means. But I would like to make it a place of reformation for all who have a tendency to go wrong. The offenders outside of Atlanta would become a revenue to the home or possibly they would result in making the state take the home."

"Can the place be built?"

"I see no reason why it can't. It's a matter of mercy, and is as much if not more needed anything I know of. It's true that two or three attempts to build one have falled but we can't more than fail again. Certainly we can't get one if we don't try, so I'm in for trying. Judge Van Both, Mr. Howell and some others have worked hard for it. Now we will join with them or any one who can help us. We'll try anyhow."

SUES THE NEW ROAD. Afult for Damages Was Filed Against the Georgia, Carolina & Northern Yesterday. A suit for damages was filed against the Georgia, Carolina and Northern railroad resterday afternoon.

The plaintiff was Lizzie McCord, and she claims that the new road has damaged her by reason of injuries sustained in the sum of $5,000.

It is the second suit that has been filed against the company. No verdict, however, has yet been awarded against it by the jury.

Messrs. Arnold & Arnold represent the plaintiff.

fr. W. B. Wilson Obtains an Injunction from Judge Clarke.

An injunction has been granted by Judge Marshall Clarke against the city of Atlanta.

It was granted to Mr. W. B. Wilson, who claimed that he apprehended immediate damage from the widening of a street in front of his property.

He claimed that the city authorities had offered him no compensation in advance of taking his ground as provided by law and he desired the work to stop until the compensation could be agreed upon and the money paid into his hands.

Judge Clarke granted the petition and named the 15th of October as the date for hearing the case more fully.

HE WAS ENJOINED.

Mr. J. M. Crawford Restrained from Building a Stable.

A petition was presented to Judge Marshall J. Clarke, yesterday afternoon asking him to restrain Mr. J. M. Crawford from erecting a stable.

The petition was made in behalf of Mrs. Mary C. Osborne, Mayor W. A. Hemphill and Mr. B. J. Conyers.

It was claimed that the defendant was in the act of putting up a large stable for horses immediately against the property of the plaintiffs and the character of the building would be such as to render the atmosphere unhealthy and to interfere with the enjoyment of the property by themselves or by their tenants.

Accordingly the petition was granted by

It is Brought Against the Receivers of the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia. A heavy suit for damages was filed against the East Tennessee, Virginia and Georgia failroad yesterday afternoon.

It was brought against the receivers Messrs. Henry Fink and C. L. McGee.

The plaintiff was Wiley Weaver, and he claims that the road has damaged him in the sum of $10,000. The injury alleged to have been received occurred the 26th of July, 1892, and the company it is claimed was guilty of neglect and oversight in the running of the train.

Mr. P. F. Smith, is the attorney for the plaintiff.

HOUSE OF REFUGE A MURDERER CAUGHT UNDERGROUND PIPES.

idental Clue Leads to the Capture of a Cold-Blooded Murderer-A Big Reward.

The murderer of Alex Caldwell, the popu ar Richmond and Danville conductor, was yesterday captured in Bessemer, Ala., after being tracked all over the continent and being looked for by the police of the south for over fourteen months.

The murderer is a negro, Will Hemphill, and he was caught by two Atlanta men under the direction of Patrolman Mehaffey, of the Atlanta police force. The murderer of Alex Caldwell, with which Will Hemphill is charged, was one of the most cold-blooded murders that has occurred in the south in years, and is still emembered by the people of South Carolina nd Georgia. Danville train just over the line in South Carolina. The train was bound for Atlanta, where Alex Caldwell lived and had many friends. It was done in August,

Will Hemphill, a negro desperado was a passenger on Conductor Caldwell's train and was coming to Atlanta. He got into a dispute with the conductor and became violently angry.

negro drew his revolver and shot Conductor Caldwell dead. He then leaped off the train and made his escape. A pursuing party was at once organized, but Hemphill party was at once organized, but Hemphill shrewdly evaded his followers and has since been at liberty. The people were greatly incensed at the cowardly murderer and Hemphill would have fared badly had he been captured. Governor Ben Tillman offered a big reward for the capture of Hemphill and descriptions of the negro were sent to the police all over the south. It now seems that Hemphill came to Atlanta, where he had started when he did the killing, after he made his escape. He succeeded in hiding himself well here, and his identity was never suspected until a few days ago. Accidently Patrolman Mehaffey discovered that the negro's name was Hemphill, and he at once remembered the killing of Caldwell. He shadowed Hemphill for three or four days trying to find out conclusively before he made an arrest. Five days ago Hemphill suddenly disappeared and went to Birmingham Menaffey felt sure he was the man and sent two Atlanta men to shadow the pegro. Yesterday afternoon Chief of Police Conrolly received a telegram from Captain R. F. Mills, of Bessemer, Ala., announcing Hemphill's arrest.

Pati Jiman Mehaffy left last night for Bessemer where he goes to get the murderer. He will bring him back tonight and carry him to Central, S. C., tomorrow, He will receive a neat reward for his capture.

BRINGING IT FROM DISTANT OHIO,

The Plan Is Now Being Discussed by th ndard Oil People—Atlanta as a Distributing Center.

Atlanta is recognized througnout the country as the coming city of the south.

She has already advanced a considerable distance, but still there is no telling the distance which she has yet to travel.

The latest manifestation of that esteem in which Atlanta is held at large, especially as a distributing center for the southern states, is found in the agitation that is now stirring the members of the Standard Oll Company in regard to making Atlanta a southern denose the members of the Standard Oil Company in regard to making Atlanta a southern depost for a more extensive distribution of their oil. The plan of connecting the city with the oil wells in Pennsylvania or with the nearest tank station in Onio, is now being discussed. Here is a letter that has recently been received by Mr. Dan Hountree. The name of the writer is withheld for the present:

"Dear Sir—As an item of news it will interest you to learn from an authentic source that est you to learn from an authentic source that active measures are now being discussed by the Standard Oil Company for making your city the southern terminus of a pipe line from ne point in Ohio.

some point in Ohio.

"Atlanta is truly great!"

The last paragraph of the letter is specially significant. It sizes up in a terse and epigramatic way the situation exactly. Atlanta is truly great. A year from now she will be still greater and the time is almost in touch of the present when she will be the greatest city of the south.

Situated among the Piedmont hills with an atmosphere and a breeze unsurpassed in their bracing effects and with railroads that jut out in every direction, connecting her with every point of the known world, she is obliged to become a great city. It is a logical necessity that follows from her prominence as a railroad center and from the advantages of her seclection as a high and healthy locality. If the pipe lines are projected to Atlanta it will be the biggest thing that has happened in years.

If the pipe lines are projected to Atlanta it will be the biggest thing that has happened in years.

Just think of the freight that will yearly be saved. The aggregate will run far up into millions. Instead of shipping oil to Atlanta in heavy barrels it will come in a long pipe and the oil will empty itself into a huge reservoir ready for distribution.

The nearest tank station is located in Ohio. A pipe connecting the station with Atlanta would reach nearly eight hundred miles and the enterprise of making the connection would involve a great deal of labor and money.

But progress is appalled by no difficulties and squints at no expense that is needed to consummate a great undertaking.

If the managers of the company agree to make Atlanta a distributing point by connecting the city with other reservoirs, the work of laying the pipes will be a matter of small difficulty and a question of only a-few months.

Whether or not the pipes are projected into the city it is certain that the facilities of Atlanta for distributing oil throughout the south are recognized by the company and they intend to enlarge and extend their business in the city.

Verily Atlanta is growing—not only in tend to emarge and extended the city.

Verily Atlanta is growing—not only in the size of her directory but in the quality of improvements that are fast making her the principal city of the south.

No city has a broader reputation, sweeping over mountains and rivers and penetrating far into the wilderness of the northwest than Atlanta. Atlanta.

She welcomes the idea of being the center of the oil trade in the south and will heartily co-operate with the company in their efforts to bring about such a desired consummation.

SOUTH CAROLINA'S COTTON-

The Crop Is Short, but There Are Some Decided Compensations.

Charleston, S. C., October 7.—(Special.)—
The past week has been favorable for harvesting in the cotton field, but the damage appears to have been done already. In the peedee section, the richest cotto. Section of the state, it is safe to say that the falling off in the crop will be at least 40 per cent. compared with last years figures. This is the estimate of expert cotton men who have been over the ground. The advices from the Piedmont section make the falling off about 30 per cent.

Under ordinary conditions this outlook the Piedmont section make the falling off about 30 per cent.

Under ordinary conditions this outlook would be gloomy in the extreme, but there are compensations which go a great way towards evening up the general result. In the first place the farmers have generally made good grain crops and are better supplied with homemade provisions than they have been for many years. In the second place they have made this cotton crop cheaper than any crop since the war. These well informed say that the average cost of this crop will be fully one cent a pound less than any crop for many years. In the third place the farmers went into sell this crop at six cents a pound and the recent rise in the staple is calculated to make them very cheerful despute the prospect of a short yield. Coming just at this time before the crop has started well on its way to market the advance is of practical value to the producers and if the higher range of values is maintained and is advanced still higher as many think is now very probable, the farmers will really be better off than if they had made a full yield.

We would like to call the attention of the public to something good in a more substantial line. Vegetables and fruits are getting scarce but there are so many new and fresh goods coming in that their place can easily be filled.

We mention a few of the good things ordinarily used which we have just received. What would be nicer for breakfast than any of these.

Our new crop Bolled Oats, Cracked Wheat or Parched Farinose will make a healthy and palatable breakfast dish, Ferris's Boneless Breakfast Bacon is always nice and our New Catch No. 1 Mackeel are enjoyed by all who try them. A Welch "Rare-bit," made from our famous York white Cream Cheese is of itself a feast of good things, and then a cup of our famous Rijamo Coffee, without which no breakfast would be complete.

For Dinner—Terrapin or Green Turtle Soup is an appetizing beginning. A Ferris or Dove Ham boiled whole will eat well. Our Deviled Crobs also make an attractive and popular dish. Then Hoyt's fine French Peas, Imported Macaroni and Head Rice are enjoyed by all. The French and Spanish Queen Olives, Cross & B's Chow-Chow Pickles, Sweet Bickle Peaches (we have the home-made) are the best table relishes that can be served. For dessers our 'California White Cherries with cream or our Sliced Pineapple cannot be improved on except by serving with them some of our fine, fresh and crisp Vanilla Wafers.

For Supper—Fresh hot rolls, white and light, like they can be made only from Regal Pat Flour are unexcelled. In light meats there are Chili Sauce, Hotspur Relish, Tomato Catsup and Mayonnaise Dressing.

The Famous Beresford Case to Come Up | Watson's Paper Says the Regroes Voted

THE FEDERAL COURT INTERFERES.

A Buling Yesterday by Judge Newman Grants the Writ of Habeas Corpus— The Lawyers Are Happy.

Lord Beresford's writ of habeas corpus has been granted by Judge Newman, of the

The case has been hanging fire before Judge Newman several days. Yesterday the attorneys for the lord, Messrs. W. C. Glenn and Ewing and Vandiver finished their argument and the judge expressed an

The federal court interferes with the state court, and the case still remains un-settled, with Beresford out of the penitentiary and three lawyers very hopeful of his final release.

This turn of the case is rather much of a surprise to the public. It shows how the attorneys for the sentence have worked for their client. It speaks volumes for the ability and astuteness of these lawyers and especially does it testify their thorough familiarity with every turn of the law.

Colonel Vandiver, of Rome has been faithful to Beresford in this lawsuit from the beginning. After Beresford was convicted, skipped away and was caught in Albany, New York, and brought back, Colonel Vandiver still true to the case entrusted to him, came to Atlanta to make appeals to the United States court above the supreme court's decision. Later on he was joined by Mr. Ewing, of Rome, in the work. Mr. Ewing is a gifted lawyer and a first cousin to Hon. Adlai Stevenson, the democratic nominee for the vice presi-dency. These two attorneys joined with them Hon. W. C. Glenn, of Atlanta and they have all been hard at work a week or more arguing the case before Judge New-What They Claimed.

They claimed that Beresford had been unjustly detained.

They based this claim on the fact that the extradition papers have been wrongly made out, that a man when extradited on one charge can't be tried for another. They claim that if Beresford was brought back to Rome on the charge of cheating and swindling he couldn't be lawfully tried for forgery.

swinding he couldn't be fawfully tried for forgery.

The argument opposing such claims naturally arose that in this case the man had not only been brought back and arraigned but had been tried and convicted; what could be done then?

It was shown by records that federal courts have in times past interfered with such cases even after conviction and thus the argument ran on. the argument ran on.

What the Court Said.

After hearing the argument of Hon. W. C. Glenn, the court made the following remarks:
"I have about concluded that I would not be justified in refusing this writ. Sec-tion 755 of the revised statutes is as folnot be justified in refusing this writ. Section 755 of the revised statutes is as follows:

"The court, or justice, to whom such application is made shall forthwith award a writ of habeas corpus, unless it appears from the petition itself that the party is not entitled thereto. The writ shall be directed to the person in whose custody the party is detained."

"Now, the court should issue the writ unless it appears from the petition itself that the party is not entitled to it. I have reflected upon this question very carefully, and I am unable to say, to my satisfaction, that the party is not entitled to it.

"While I, of course, do not express any opinion as to whether or not, upon the hearing, the legal questions that are raised here will be determined in favor of petitioner, still, I feel that he has the right to have this writ issue, that these questions may be presented and heard. I have held it up in order to give it very careful consideration, because, it being a legal question, the court has the right to determine whether or not there is enough in it to justify the issuing of the writ, and if not, to deny it.

"I do not think, taking a negative view of the matter, that I would be justified in saving that he is not entitled to it: however. saying that he is not entitled to it; however, as stated before. It express no opinion as to whether he will be entitled to anything upon the hearing or not."

An order may be taken directing the writ of issue.

Colonel Vandiver, and Mr. Ewing, of Rome who have been here working on the case for a week, were much elated yesterday at their success.

What About His Destiny.

What About His Destiny.
What is to become of Lord Beresford, now is an interesting question.
The effect of this ruling of Judge Newman is to grant a new trial for the lord.
That is to say he will be taken into court to ascertain whether or not the evidence in the case is sufficient to warrant the course that has been directed by the lower court.

Beresford will be brought before Judge Newman next Monday.

For the German Church.

The Ladles' Aid Society of the German Lutheran church will open a fair for the benefit of their church Monday, October 10th, at the Turner hall, Centennial building, 3 1-2 Whitehall. Every arrangement for the grand opening has been perfected. Everything tending to make the occasion a memorable one has been done. Proceeds to the indebtedness of the church.

Meagley on his success in building up that institution.

On last Monday the income of the school was just double that of one year ago. This has been brought about by the clear-cut, practical work done in the schoolroom. The major part of his students are preparing for college and for such he offers unequaled advantages.

His building is large and well equipped, his attendance is limited and is drawn from the best element, his faculty consists of able, experienced men, all of whom have received special training for the departments of which they are in charge.

The success of the school is a subject of

AND THIRD PARTY MEN DIDN'T VOTE.

But He Adds That the Definite Result Cannot Be Given Yet-Will Fight in November.

The third party hasn't gone out of business yet, but is trying to gather together the remnants of a disorganized and thoroughly routed party to make a fight in the presidential and congressional race.

It will present but a feeble front, how-ver, with ranks sadly thinned and banner flying that have already trailed in the dust of an overwhelming defeat.

It's only the feeble, expiring kick of the party that has already received its death blow—that of making a fight at the No-

Oscar Parker says the campaign and executive committees will not disband but will make a vigorous fight in November, expecting to elect several congressmen. Upon what Mr. Parker bases his great expectasuccess in the face of a 70,000 majority, he does not explain.

Things looked decidedly blue around third party headquarters yesterday. Colonel Peek nor Son-in-law Inwin neither were around. Oscar Parker was at his home, or anywhere else than the headquarters.

Colonel Duniel left for Kentucky last night after making the first concession of defeat he ever made, i. e., "It looks like we are beat."

Mr. Ivey held his ground. The appearance of everything indicated that there was something dead about the house, something that had been loved dearly for the sorrow was very deep.

The People's Party Paper came out yesterday one day late, but modestly announced that it could give nothing definite about the result. It goes on to remark in this strain: "It is evident that the estimate of the democratic dailies is very much above the truth. It is equally evident that the returns will show the defeat of Colonel Peek and his ticket.

"One plain fact is that the colored vote is couted largely for organized democracy. What influenced or effected this result is not so evident as the fact, and need not be discussed until definite reports of the election are accessible.

"Another fact more plain is that there was a very large percentage of the white vote that did not go to the polls. Why, it is also best to discuss when the returns are all in.

"In Atlanta the registration was about 7,750 of possibly 15,000 male adults competent to register. Of this registration less than half voted. It appears that the abstainers were principally people's party sympathizers. Vhy?"

Many a life has been lost because of the taste of codliver oil.

If Scott's Emulsion did nothing more than take that taste away, it would save the lives of some at least of those that put off too long the means of recovery.

It does more. It is halfdigested already. It slips through the stomach as if by stealth. It goes to make strength when cod-liver oil would be a burden.
